Lutwyche Road Realignment - Day & Night Works

Activities to widen Lutwyche Road, between the Gympie Road bridge and Perry Street, are continuing in February as day and night work. From Friday, 10 February, night work will be undertaken between 8pm and 5am for approximately four weeks, weather dependent, to realign this section of Lutwyche Road. Refer to map overleaf for locations of work.

The realignment involves shifting the Lutwyche Road north bound carriageway, between Perry Street and Kedron Park Road, further to the east. This will enable construction of medians and right turn lanes that will access the east bound on-ramp of the Airport Link tunnel. Following the realignment a work site will be set up between the north and south bound carriageway of Lutwyche Road.

This work must be undertaken at night to minimise disruption to traffic on Lutwyche Road during peak travel times. Noisier activities will be carried out early in the shift, where possible.

Activities will include:

- Delivery of equipment and materials, including barriers, road base and concrete
- Use of a mobile crane to install and relocate road barriers and traffic signal posts
- Excavation, loading and removal of excavated materials
- Pavement works including asphalt profiling, laying of asphalt and vibration compaction
- Line marking including grinding to remove old lines
- Saw cutting, hammering and excavation for service and drainage installation
- Concreting works including steel fixing and use of a kerbing machine

What to expect:

- Flashing lights and temporary construction lighting, including use of generators
- Operation of construction machinery including construction vehicle movements along arterial and local roads
- Construction noise from equipment including excavators, pavement compaction, truck reversing alarms, operation of a crane, concrete trucks, profiling machine, rock hammers and saw cutting
- Lane closures and detours managed with traffic control, as required

Following this realignment, construction activities will be ongoing between the north and southbound carriageways of Lutwyche Road as day and night work for approximately five weeks, weather dependent.
